Packaging Innovation and Sustainability

Key considerations for clients

Product Protection

- Oxygen, Moisture, Light
- Transportation

Consumer Engagement

- On the Shelf Image
- Convenience of Use

Total Cost of Ownership

- Purchase Price
- Processing Speed & Ease

Sustainability

- Carbon Footprint Impact
- End-of-Life Scenario

The Benefits of Flexible Packaging

WHY FLEXIBLE PACKAGING IS AWESOME:

Less energy. Fewer resources. Smaller footprint.

The role flexible packaging plays in sustainability across the different stages of the supply chain.

- Protects the product and reduces container breakage → Less waste
- Produces less CO₂ emissions → Better for the environment
- Improves product-packaging ratio → Efficient resource utilization
- Optimizes transportation with light weight and flat shape → Fewer trucks on the road for transport
- Extends shelf life with barrier properties → One of the key solutions to reduce food waste

CARBON IMPACT

A rigid PET container for laundry detergent pods emits +726% more greenhouse gases than a flexible pouch with zipper

MATERIAL TO LANDFILL

+31% more thermoformed tubs for baby food packaging ends up in a landfill compared to a flexible pouch with fitment

WATER USAGE

A HDPE bottle for motor oil packaging consumes +513% more water than a flexible pouch with fitment

FOSSIL FUEL USAGE

A rigid pail for cat litter packaging consumes +1,429% more fossil fuel than a flexible bag

WATER USAGE

A steel can for packaging coffee consumes +1,605% more water than a flexible pouch

PRODUCT-TO-PACKAGE RATIO

A single serve juice flexible pouch efficiently uses packaging with a product-to-package ratio of +97%

The Benefits of Flexible Packaging

COFFEE PACKAGE COMPARISON

Ground coffee is a popular beverage and is packaged in a variety of package formats. For this Life Cycle Assessment (LCA) study, the stand-up flexible pouch, steel can and plastic canister package formats were evaluated for their environmental impacts with a cradle to grave boundary.

WATER CONSUMPTION

The steel can uses 16x as much water as the stand-up flexible pouch, mainly during the material development stage, as large amounts of water are used during the cooling process in the formation of steel.

The HDPE plastic canister consumes 2x as much water as the stand-up flexible pouch due to water usage during the injection molding process.

GREENHOUSE GAS EMISSIONS

The production of steel cans and the HDPE canister both require much more energy and have higher carbon emissions in the manufacturing or conversion stage. The carbon impact is lower for a lighter stand-up flexible pouch that holds more of the product and uses less material.

The HDPE canister and steel can respectively emit 4x and 7x more GHG emissions than the flexible pouch.

FOSSIL FUEL CONSUMPTION

A flexible pouch has a lower overall fossil fuel usage.

A steel can and HDPE canister respectively use 453% and 518% more fossil fuel than a stand-up flexible pouch.

The Benefits of Flexible Packaging

Guess how many trucks you would need to transport the same volume of rigid containers?

ONE TRUCKLOAD OF FLAT POUCHES
OFTEN EQUALS BETWEEN
15-25 truckloads of empty rigid containers

Flexible packaging plays a vital role in preserving food and reducing food waste

What are the flexible packaging benefits?

Significantly improves product protection and freshness

Increases shelf life and reduces food waste

Offers unprecedented convenience features

Provides confidence in sterility and product security

Informs the consumer of the contents

The Benefits of Flexible Packaging

FLEXIBLE PACKAGING reduces food waste

When shelf life increases, food waste decreases

1/3 of all food produced is disposed of before it is consumed

RULE OF THUMB:

Packaging accounts for about 10% of carbon footprint of product

Food Waste Consumes

85%

Occurs downstream at consumer facing businesses and homes

Dynamically adapting Print's portfolio to market

Printing Revenues by product / market

- Through acquisitions, divestitures and organic transformation, a growing portion of the portfolio is composed of activities with favourable growth opportunities. Including our Media Sector, this would represent close to 30% of Print's revenues.
- Flyers continue to generate significant revenues due to unmatched reach and return on investment for retailers.
- Print's portfolio today is much more resilient with lower exposure to Newspapers, Magazines and Commercial printing and continues to generate strong profitability and free cash flow.

In-Store Marketing (ISM)

A growth vertical within our Printing sector

- Grew from less than $7M annualized revenues in 2012 to a run-rate of ~$140M (through organic growth & acquisitions)
- Acquisition of Holland & Crosby and Artisan Complete to complement our product/service offering and provide scale
 - Significant cost synergies have been identified and implemented, allowing margins improvement
- Strong customer relationships, internal capabilities and attractive revenue synergies from acquisitions will contribute to generate organic growth
- Significant opportunities for consolidation in an extremely fragmented market

Preparing back-to-business

Retail environments

Customized displays

In-Store Marketing (ISM)

A vertical with growing sub-segments

Promotional Point of Purchase (POP)

Printing and production of predominantly high-frequency customized promotional materials

Permanent Signage

Permanent signage, wayfinding, branding, department & information with installation management

Display & Decor

Print and Assembly of customized merchandizing displays, in-store signage, low frequency promotional displays for CPGs

Relations built with Canadian retailers over the years and recent acquisitions should allow us to grow in all ISM markets
